BELLEFONTE, PA.,
Wednesday Morning, May 8th, 1872.

CERTAIN.—That Gen. Grant defeated Jeff. Davis, and caused his boasted Confederacy to crumble and fall, is a fact no sane man will dispute. Just so certain, will he defeat the bail of Jeff., in the coming Presidential canvass. It is too soon yet for traitors and their friends to assume power in the United States.

WHICH?—A few days before the meeting of the Cincinnati sore-head Convention, the New York Tribune declared that the Convention would either result in a farce or nominate the man who would be chosen President by the people. Now, how is it? Was the Convention a farce, or will Mr. Greeley tell the people that he expects to be elected?

QUERY?—Will the Democrats support Horace Greeley for President? We answer, no! They will call their own Convention and nominate their own candidates. Let Republicans remember this, and they will easily see that the only object Horace Greeley and his aiders and abettors have in view is to divide and distract the Republican party and thus defeat Gen. Grant.

THE PHILOSOPHER.—Horace Greeley who in former years made the Tribune one of the greatest newspapers in the world, has now in his old age, become somewhat demented, and has determined, to destroy and obliterate not only his own name and fame, but the reputation of his newspaper all for the purpose of gratifying his own childish vanity, and his deep and diabolical hate of Gen. Grant.

WE have the honor to announce that it was not the editor of this paper who was nominated at Cincinnati for VICE PRESIDENT. It was B. Gratz Brown, of Missouri. We merely make this announcement to save us from being annoyed with numerous letters and interrogations? Remember the candidate for Vice President on the ticket with Horace Greeley, is B. Gratz Brown, of Missouri and not W. W. Brown, L. L. D., of Pennsylvania.

WHO?—It is now pretty certain that Senator Buckalew will be nominated, by the Democratic State Convention, as the candidate of that party for Governor. We have no objections. General Hartranft will walk over the course to certain and glorious victory, it matters not who his opponent may be. As to Senator Buckalew being an honest and high-toned man, it is all bosh, as the reports made by him in the Deckert case and in the McClure case abundantly prove. Let the Democracy trot him out.

—Mr. Conway thinks the English do not and cannot appreciate India in a moral or intellectual sense. They appreciate India commercially and value its imports. It is like the savage chief, who, when asked whether he knew anything of an English officer who was missing, replied: "I ate a piece of him." Such gastronomic knowledge of India England has. But for anything like a realization of the tremendous importance of how the two hundred millions of their fellow subjects in the East shall be dealt with, one utterly looks in vain.

A POINTED QUESTION.

Edward Scull, Esq., Editor and Proprietor of the Somerset Herald, was, as our readers well know, himself a candidate for Auditor General in the State Convention. He was indeed a very prominent candidate. He failed, however, Gen. Allen being the lucky man. Mr. Scull did not go home to cry over his luck, but went to work like a true Republican for the whole ticket. We clip the following notice in regard to Col. Forney's opposition to Gen. Allen, from Mr. Scull's Herald to show the difference between a true man and a weather cock. Mr. Scull, says:

"The morning after the Harrisburg Convention, Forney's Press, in a leading editorial, proclaimed its dissatisfaction with the nomination of General Hartranft, but lauded to the echo the nominee for Auditor General—General Allen. Now it demands that Allen be stricken from the ticket as an unworthy candidate. Who can tell what the next vagary of the Press will be?"

BE NOT DECEIVED.

The Liberal Republicans, or Greeleyites, in our humble opinion are not now and never were a reliable class of men. Mr. Greeley himself is a smart man, a great man and we can go farther and say he is a wonderfully smart and great man, and yet it must be conceded that he is and always has been a peculiarly eccentric man, and therefore, so unreliable as never to obtain the confidence of the leaders of his party to a sufficient extent to entrust him with any high office or responsible position. He is great as a writer, but weak, erratic and reckless as a leader. That he is unreliable as a leader is evident from his desire in 1861, to let the Southern States go, his "On to Richmond" cry, his worse than silly efforts in behalf of a Peace Conference, his opposition to President Lincoln, in the most critical period of the war, his bailing Jeff. Davis, and a thousand and one other eccentricities and gross blunders that we need not here enumerate. Such an erratic man would certainly be an unsafe one in the Presidential chair.

The members of the Cincinnati Convention, and who nominated Greeley, were all, disappointed office-seekers, or defaulting officers, and who were turned out of office for such defalcations.—Grant punishes such men, hence their opposition to him.

The object of Mr. Greeley and his sore-head followers, is not the election of the Cincinnati ticket. They are too smart to even hope for this. They went to Cincinnati with the cry of "Anything to beat Grant." They met. They planned. They adopted a platform. They nominated a ticket. This all looks like business.

But, be not deceived. Greeley would decline the nomination to-morrow, provided Gen. Grant would consent to withdraw his name as a Presidential candidate, and refuse to accept the nomination from the Republican Convention, to be held in Phila. on the 5th day of June.

This will now evidently be the next move on the part of these sore-heads.—They will consult, plan, scheme, intrique, lie about their strength, and all to secure the one grand object of their ambition—the withdrawal of Grant for a new and compromise candidate. If they can beat Grant in this way the Cincinnati ticket will be withdrawn. If Grant will not surrender, and we are proud to say he never has in the face of the enemy, then Greely, & Co., will go on, repeating and howling their foolish and revengeful cry of "Anything to beat Grant," and by thus dividing and disorganizing the Republican party, permit the election of the Democratic candidate.

People of Pennsylvania be not deceived.

GENERAL ALLEN AT HOME.

In order to let our readers see the estimation in which Gen. Allen is held by his own friends and neighbors, we publish the following from the Venango Citizen. It will be seen that his nomination for Auditor General was most enthusiastically received throughout his entire Senatorial District. The Citizen, says: "General Harrison Allen, the nominee for Auditor General, has represented this district in the Senate for the past three years in a manner which has won for himself the confidence and respect of the people. Especially during the past winter, by his able and energetic efforts in the interest of the oil producers, he has won the good opinion of both Republicans and Democrats, and we believe they will show their appreciation of his fidelity by giving him a rousing majority in October next. The nomination of Gen. Allen was received with intense enthusiasm, and the motion to make him the unanimous choice of the convention was carried without a dissenting voice, amidst tremendous cheering. Delegates from the mining region of the State, the friends of Ketchum, are a unit for Allen, and we believe he is the most popular man named before the convention.

THE St. Louis Democrat says: Among the patents which we soon expect to see issued are the following: To Horace Greeley, of New York for a self-adjusting India rubber conscience, enabling the owner to go back on himself on the tariff question for campaign purposes. To John M. Palmer, of Illinois, for a doubleender rotary-motioned blunderbuss, loaded in the middle and discharged at both ends, and in opposite direction; useful in bear hunting to protect the hunter's rear while the game is attacked from the front."

SIX YEARS OF AUDITING AUTHORITY.

For six years John F. Hartranft, says the State Journal, has been at the head of the auditing department of the Commonwealth, during which the direct settlement of accounts involving millions of dollars came under his immediate authority, and in no single instance did he neglect the great interests within his control. The disallowances, if it were possible to aggregate such accounts, would show the character of the policy pursued by the present Auditor General, while the rigid manner in which just exactions are demanded, places all the debtors of the Commonwealth on equal grounds and secures for the treasury uninterrupted receipts of revenue. The collection of the taxes due from county treasurers was never more successfully carried and seldom resulted as favorably as it did under Hartranft's administration. He has caused to be closed satisfactorily to the State, scores of long standing accounts of this character making collections which were long since deemed impracticable, and thus securing revenues to which the State had in a manner abandoned her claim. The tax from corporations always troublesome to collect, and attended by the most delicate litigation, was so managed by Hartranft to secure it in most part without appeal to the courts, and when carried there pushed with such vigor as to leave the debtor no chance of escape except by the clear and well established precedents of law. The records of the Auditor General's office will show that Gen. Hartranft has collected a larger proportion of tax from corporations than any preceding auditor, by which we mean that he has been more successful in settling such accounts and securing the money due to the State, which were litigated by the debtors.

The six years of John F. Hartranft in the Auditor General's office, constitute a record of faithful, honorable and competent service, calculated alone to give a man a reputation which should commend him to the confidence of the people for a lifetime, and render him worthy of their support when he is presented for their consideration. Clear in judgment, reticent in consideration, calm in action and courteous in intercourse, General Hartranft is always the same under all circumstances, and we doubt if any man ever came in official or personal contact with him without being impressed by his manly bearing and satisfied with his impartial treatment. He is a clean man in whatever light you may view him. His social characteristics are those of a gentleman aspiring to and conscientiously observing the strictest requirements of truth, virtue and honesty, while his public acts are controlled by the Constitution and law he swore to support when invested with official authority.

Such was Hartranft during six years of official civil power.

FORNEY—NOW AND THEN.

The Philadelphia Press is for some reason trying to ride two horses running in different directions. It pretends to support Grant and yet "sours" on the Republican State ticket, unless something is "fixed." Those who chuckle over its opposition to General Allen, will be interested in reading the following from the Press of May 19, 1871:

General Harrison Allen, State Senator from Warren county, who was largely voted for in the Republican State Convention for the office of Auditor General, is one of the truest and best men in our Commonwealth. Had he received the nomination he would have received a cordial and enthusiastic support. Let him contentedly bide his time. Higher honors await him.

Exactly! Appealing from Forney factious to Forney sensible, the Republicans of the State through their delegates in Convention assembled, propose to let the "higher honors," denied in 1871, come in 1872. Will the Press refuse to practice what it preaches? Can it possibly refuse to support "one of the truest and best men in our Commonwealth?"

ON Monday last Gen. R. B. Beath, Surveyor General elect, entered upon the duties of his office. The following are the appointed clerks under the new regime: Robert A. M'Coy, chief clerk, Cambria county; Wm. Evans, Indiana county; H. A. Caldwell, Blair county; La Rue M. Hicks, Somerset county; Samuel Hamilton, Beaver county; Jas. Pott, Fulton county; Wm. H. Seibert, Schuylkill county; J. N. Blundin, Philadelphia; George W. Philips, Dauphin county; S. H. Galbraith Perry county; Captain Grant, Berks county; W. A. Kinsloe, Lycoming county; N. C. Wilson, Mifflin county; messenger,——Simpson, Philadelphia.

A WORD TO COL. FORNEY.

The word perhaps is not worth uttering, but it must have vent, and we shall give it for precisely its value in the political market. Col. Forney in his Saturday's issue quotes from this paper a portion of an editorial which expresses the opinion that there will be no reassembling of the State convention, and no remodeling of the State ticket, and comments upon the extracts as follows:

"There is an air of authority here which keenly recalls the arrogance of the Buchanan dictatorship, when the protest of the indignant freemen in the Democratic party against the Lecompton fraud were disregarded by the gentleman who had the interests of the old Democracy in charge, and particularly by those resident in Harrisburg. If the decree is ex cathedra—if it proceeds from Mr. Russell Errett, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, we simply enter upon the great campaign of 1872 with our right arm broken.—Who is to adjust the irregularities of the Republican State Convention? Who is to decide when General Harry White resigns, as we believe he intends to do, one of the double nominations conferred upon him by the blunderers who met at Harrisburg on the 10th of April? Who is to reconcile the angry complaints of different Congressional districts against the election of delegates to the National Convention who do not live in the districts from which they are appointed? Here are cases outside of the loud complaints against the nomination of General Hartranft from such counties as Luzerne, Lancaster, Cumberland, Wayne, Allegheny and Philadelphia. The exigency is grave to be confided to the State Central Committee, and too serious to be allowed to remain unsettled and so develop into an incurable cancer."

Throwing out of view all of this extract from the Press which relates to the Lecompton "fraud," in which Col. Forney was terribly mixed up, and which does not much concern us at present, we desire to say that Mr. Russell Errett, Chairman of the Republican State Committee has no complaint to make with us on the subject. We desire to exonerate that gentleman from any participation in or with our individual ideas on that subject. We have spoken of facts as they presented themselves to us, without reference to the ideas of others. We represent no "rings," no faction of the Republican party, and speak our own ideas of passing events as they occur to us. In short, we speak for ourselves, and speaking for ourselves individually, we have simply to say to Col. Forney that he cannot deceive us or the Republican party by the hypothesis which he starts that certain "irregularities," as he designates them, of the Republican State Convention, can only be amended by the re-assembling of that convention and the retraction of its acts. We have no authority to speak for Russell Errett, or any other member of the State Central Committee, but we simply reiterate what we have already said, and what the Press objects to, that there will be no reassembling of the State Convention, no remodeling of the ticket to please Col. Forney and other recalcitrants, who choose to kick up their heels and protest against the action of that body.

What is done is done and must stand. It was a fair and square expression of the majority of the convention, elected by the Republican party under the rules of the party, and if the Press and kindred prints that follow in its wake don't like it they may make their opposition tell to the best advantage. If they succeed in defeating General Hartranft and the ticket at the State election in October, they must be held answerable for the result of the Presidential election in the November following.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

IN 1864 Mr. Greeley said in the Tribune: "We do not know just where General Grant is going to strike, but we would advise any one who may happen to be in his way to get out of it directly." Pretty good advice Brother Greeley. In 1868 he said: "We are led by him who first taught our armies to conquer in the West, and subsequently in the East; also Richmond would not come to us until we sent Grant after it, and then it had to come. [Cheers.] He has never yet been defeated, and he never will be. He will be as great and successful on the field of politics as on that of arms."

THE Washington Chronicle says: The Tribune, noting the reduction of the national debt last month, $12,588,088, and the total reduction since March 1, 1869, $327,719,819, says: "If the people all felt as we do, this rate of reduction would be maintained till the last dollar was paid."

And yet the editor of that journal travels to Cincinnati!

THE STATE CONVENTION AND THE HON. FRANCIS JORDAN.

[From the Harrisburg Telegraph.]

At a convention where so many things are done in so short a time time it is quite common for some things to be misunderstood, and sometimes injustice done. The reflection attempted to be cast on Mr. Jordan, in one or two newspapers, because he declined to allow the use of his name for Governor in the recent convention is as ridiculous as it it unjust. When it was made to appear by the meeting of Hartranft's friends in caucus that between seventy and eighty of the delegates could be relied on to nominate him for Governor, his selection on the first ballot was assured.

Col. Jordan cared nothing for a mere complimentary vote, and he had to submit to the inevitable, and did it by declining to allow the use of his name. Subsequently sundry friends of Hartranft placed Mr. Jordan in nomination for Supreme Judge, out of an appreciation of his strength, character and abilities, and supported him in good faith. Mr Jordan had no knowledge of this. His own friends did not even co-operate in the movement, nor regard him as a candidate for that office, which he was not. We were on the ground, had ample opportunities to see and know what was done, and we know whereof we affirm.

Pennsylvania contains no more honest man, upright citizen, able and sagacious statesman than Hon Francis Jordan. We believe his name would be a tower of strength to any ticket, and we should have been exceedingly pleased to have him one of our standard bearers this year.

HIS ENEMIES ENDORSE HIM.

The Miltonian says: "General Hartranft's nomination has won the hearty endorsement of all the Republican papers in the State except two or three. No political fact has ever been better established than this—that Hartranft's official life has been pure. On the Evans investigating committee he had as many personal and political enemies as friends, and yet they unanimously reported before the nomination in the heat of political strife, that not a single implicating fact could be produced. Wallace, an adroit Democratic politician, was on that Commission; and he, along with other Democrats, endorsed it by his signature. When again elected to fill the vacancy of Dr. Stanton, not a single Democratic member of either the House or Senate voted against him—thus showing their confidence in his honesty. No man familiar with State politics and not connected with the Evans conspiracy ever seriously entertained or uttered a suspicion against him."

REFERRING to our relations with Spain a Washington dispatch says. It is known that prior to the return home of General Sickles his recall had been asked for by Spain, as he was no longer acceptable to them on account of his alleged interference with local matters. When he came home and gave an account of his stewardship, the President sustained, while Mr. Fish disapproved of his conduct and opposed his return. The President, however, refused to remove him, and Mr. Sickles was given permission to return; but, finding it was not likely to be pleasant to remain there, the minister some time ago made his arrangements to return for a short stay only, and then to bring his family and effects home for good in time to participate in the fall elections.

WELL SAID.—The State Journal says that, it is most amusing to hear men talk of labor reform who have been advocating the Democratic policy of opening our ports to the free competition of the pauper labor of Europe, by which the laboring men of America would be brought to the level of the agricultural population of England, where the best field hands do not get above two shillings a day. Give the free trade Democracy power for four years, and men who now have work at wages out of which they can support their families and "put by a penny for a rainy day," will find it difficult to get employment by which they can earn bread.

POOR CHIEF JUSTICE CHASE!—With rare resignation, he sent a letter to Cincinnati, in which he soberly said he placed himself in the hands of his friends. The poor old man, after this exertion, will be compelled to retire for the summer to a Rocky Mountain spring to restore his shattered nerves. What a blessed thing it would be for the country if all such men as Chase were in heaven, with palms in their hands, and a new song in their mouths. They have outlived their days of usefulness.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

—It is now stated that Stokes' counsel have decided to present a plea of insanity on his behalf.

—How to become a Liberal Republican—buy a pair of beautiful green goggles and keep your eye on Washington.

—Governor Noyes, of Ohio, has appointed five Commissioners to the Internal Prison Congress, to be held July 3rd.

—They don't reckon from the beginning of the Christian era in Chicago any longer. B. T. (before the fire), has taken the place of Anno Domini.

—Mrs. David R. Porter, wife of Ex-Governor Porter, and mother of General Horace Porter, private Secretary of Gen. Grant, died at Harrisburg on Wednesday night last.

—The stock of cattle in some New Hampshire towns has diminished one-half since last year, owing to the scarcity of hay, and the decrease throughout the State at large.

—The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has ordered the immediate collection of all taxes due from distillers, and recalls all orders issued for a stay in the collection of such taxes.

—The sum of three thousand one hundred and forty five dollars have already been subscribed in New York, to the erection of a monument to Major General George H. Thomas.

—We very much fear good Mr. Greeley will find B. Gratz Brown a bob to his kite of the most disagreeable kind. With such a load he will find it impossible to fly high or sail smoothly.

—No less than twelve iron steamships are at present building on the Delaware, the aggregate cost of which will be considerably more than six millions of dollars. Hands off! Messrs. Free-Traders.

—Several stone implements bearing evidence of human workmanship have recently been found in California, imbedded in rock the formation of which must largely ante-date the period usually assigned as the time of the origin of man.

—England purchased $184,000,000 worth of cotton from the United States last year, and made a net profit from the articles manufactured from it of $188,000,000. And our free traders are angry because we didn't help her to make a bigger profit still.

—The Chicago Evening Mail thinks Judge Chase's run for the Presidency will be "both a stern chase and a long chase." Our cotemporary forgets that competent judges, including Salmon himself, some time ago decided this race to be a wild goose chase, and left the track.

—The Pennsylvania pilgrims had a very sorry time of it in the Pittsburgh pow-wow. The pious John Hickman, of West Chester, was merely snubbed, while the name of King Alexander did not appear upon any of the Committees. Oh! the burning of those bridges was bad, very bad business.

—The dispensation of justice in New York has become a tolerably lucrative occupation. The Recorder and City Judge now draw salaries of $15,000; the Judges of the Supreme Court $17,000; the Judges of the Common Pleas $15,000, and the police justices $10,000 per year.

—In the Electoral College of 357 votes, this year, the former slaveholding States will have 134 votes, the Western States 102, the New England and Middle States 109, and the Pacific States 12 votes. Therefore, according to geographical apportionment, the South is still the leading political power in the Union.

—Of the seven Republican Senators who voted against the deposition of Andrew Johnson when impeached by the House of Representatives, three—Grimes, Fessenden and Van Winkle—have passed away, while the remaining four—Trumbull, Ross of Kansas, Henderson of Missouri, and Fowler of Tennessee—are all enthusiastic supporters of the Cincinnati movement.

—Russia is about to inaugurate a new system of taxation. Hitherto, only persons liable to military service have been liable to taxation, so that the nobles and government officials have shifted all burdens of the sort on the peasantry and the manual laborers. This extraordinarily unfair discrimination is to be done away with. Taxation will hereafter be universal, and military service very nearly so.

THE UNFINISHED PRAYER.

"Now I lay me" -say it darling.
"Lay me," lisped the tiny lips
Of my daughter, kneeling, bending
O'er her folded finger-tips.

"Down to sleep"—"To sleep," she murmured,
And the curly head dropped low,
"I pray the Lord," I gently added—
"You can say it all I know."

"Pray the Lord"—the words came faintly;
Fainter still, "My soul to keep"—
Then the tired head fairly nodded,
And the child was fast asleep.

But the dewy eyes half opened,
When I clasped her to my breast;
And then the dear voice softly whispered—
"Mamma, God knows all the rest."

HOW THE DEACON'S WIFE INTRODUCED THE DEACON.

Deacon Flint had decided to move; had decided to move to C.; had decided to commence moving at precisely five o'clock on Monday morning, July 18th; and so on that identical Monday morning you might, had you been an early riser, have seen the Deacon, divested of his coat and his Sunday dignity, shaking the best room carpet in the back yard.

They went through the tearing up process very much as other people do; and being endowed with an over abundance of this world's goods, the last load of furniture, consisting of the Deacon's wife and baby, the twins and the best room lookin. glass, was on its way to the depot at five o'clock, P. M.

It was but a few hour's ride to C., and just in the coolest dusk of the July twilight they walked up the street to their new home, very tired.

It was prayer-meeting night, and the Deacon went to prayer-meeting for the first time in C., took an active part, and after meeting waited to shake hands with the minister and some of the brethren, answer inquiries, and present their letters.

He had the satisfaction of feeling on his way home that he had made a good impression; it pleased him; it would have pleased us; and he told his little wife that night, in his grave way, that he "hoped, coming as he did into the midst of a strange people, there might never be any occasion of remark against him while he remained among them."

"I'm sure I hope not, Samuel," she said looking innocently up in his face, and adding, as she nestled her little brown head on his shoulder, "I don't feel very much alarmed about it."

The next day, Friday, the Deacon went back to the old home, having some business settlements to make there.

"Can't tell when I shall be back; probably not till Monday noon; guess there's enough wood split to last you till then. Good-bye," he said, and was gone.

The wee woman went singing back to her half-washed dinner dishes, and with one foot on the cradle rocker, she scoured the knives, while she told the story of "Jack and Gill" to the twins.

When the last kettle was washed, the kitchen stove and table brushed and scoured to the usual shade of black and white, the baby asleep in her little nest or a cradle, "bless her!" she washed the pretty twin's faces till they blushed like red peppers, then settled them in their trundle bed for a nap.

One morning she wakened early, entirely free from a wretched head ache she had the day before. "Now for the washing," she said to herself. "I want to have it all done, the kitchen cleaned and my dress changed before Samuel comes at noon."

Quickly dressing so as not to waken the children, she slipped out into the kitchen built a fire, and commenced operations. How she did work! every step told of something done, and at half-past ten, short of all her hindrances from the baby, who was cross, she was hanging out the clothes so snowy white they dazzled her eyes as the sun shone on them. One end of the clothes line ran nearly out to the front fence through the side yard, and whitest, nicest cloths were hung there, of course.

"How many people are passing," she thought to herself, "and how they all stare at me; guess it must be the clothes though, instead of me," and she tenderly pinned the rear of one of the Deacon's shirts to the line. "Hark! was that the front gate?" Before she had time to turn around, the Deacon's energetic strides had brought him close to her; but what was the matter!

"Martha—Pendleton—Flint!" he exclaimed, "what in the world are you doing? Come straight into the house."

"Don't you see the people all goin' to meeting, and you a hangin' out shirts? it's Sunday morning."

Such a laugh as rang out then on the Sunday air I'm sure the good people of C. never heard before. "O, Samuel," she said, holding her sides, "it's so funny! no wonder the folks stared at me and the clothes. Oh, Oh, Oh!" and she sank down on the grass in a convulsion of laughter.

The poor Deacon was scandalized.

"You're not goin' to let them clothes hang out there all day, are you, Martha Flint?"

"Of course I am; you don't suppose, now I've got them out, God's going to grudge me the sunshine to dry them with, because it's Sunday, do you? Why, it would be wicked to bring them in before sun down. But see here, Mr. Deacon, it's about time I called you to account, I think. How came you to be traveling to-day? Guess there's a little Sunday-breaking on both sides, isn't there?"

The Deacon turned slowly around, and sat down. Then perching herself on his knee, she took his honest brown face in her hands, and said: "Be a good boy, now and tell me all the truth; remember George Washington, dear."

The Deacon smiled, just a trace of trouble in his smile, and taking the hands that held his captive, in his own, said: "Well, little woman, I had everything finished up last night, ready to start for home on the five o'clock train. Somehow, I must have been uncommon tired, or else it was the heat; leastways, I dropped to sleep in the depot and missed the train. Then I thought I'd take the nine o'clock train and get home at midnight, so's you wouldn't be so lonesome Sunday, but we broke down, and just got here a half hour ago. Then to think after walkin' through town, from the cars, and the folks lookin' at me on their way to church!—"

"To think, Samuel," she broke in, "after that dreadful trial you should walk into your front gate and find your wife hanging out clothes in your front yard, and you a Deacon of good standing in the church! dear! what do you suppose the Lord will do to me for thinking this was wash day? I don't think," she added, "he'll be very hard on me, because yesterday was my Sunday, though I had such a sick headache, it seems I didn't know much about the day. I'll tell you what, Samuel, I'll stay at home with the babies to night, and you can go to meeting, and then piece out your Sunday to-morrow, won't that do?"

But the Deacon couldn't get over it; his heart was heavy; and while his wife was busy in the kitchen he put on his hat, and with his hands clasped reverently behind him, (his Sunday walk) slowly and solemnly he walked out to the clothes line.

Most of the clothes were dry, for the sun was very hot, and one by one he dropped the snowy things into the basket, unconsciously humming to himself, "Have pity, Lord, O Lord, forgive."

Mrs. Flint was washing dishes, and nearly dropped her best glass dish when the Deacon walked in with the clean clothes. "I couldn't stand it, Martha," he said, in explanation.

"Guess I must sprinkle and iron them to-day, Samuel, wouldn't you?" she said, archly.

The Deacon merely ejaculated a disapproving sigh dear, and went into the other room to read his Sunday paper.

By and by the people began to come from church. What a sudden, surprising interest they seemed to have taken in his household premises; they gazed, and stared, and looked back, and gazed again. But the Deacon was an humble man, it didn't flatter him; he read his paper and sighed again, and then "fell to thinking."

A little while after, two arms stole softly around his neck, and a dear voice said, "forget all about it, dear, and I'll—" a knock at the door interrupted, and she went to open it.

Deacon Flint rose from his open Bible, and more introductions followed, whereupon Elder Cummins cleared his throat, and in a piping voice said:

"You must excuse, Deacon Flint, our coming on such a day, but we thought it best that some explanations should be made before our people again gather for evening service!"

"Eh, I know what you mean, I guess, Elder Cummins. You want to know why I kept yesterday for Sunday, instead of to-day, don't you? Well, the fact was, the Deacon was away, and I made a miscount in the days somehow. I was so busy settling, and so yesterday was my Sunday, though I was in bed all day with a sick headache, and so didn't find out my mistake at all. Then, wasn't it funny? I got up this morning and went to washing, thinking it was Monday, and I'd get all through before the Deacon came home; I declare, I've laughed so about it, I fairly ache," and the little feminine offender laughed again, and so contagiously that the three laughed with her.

"I've been so good, though, Elder, the rest of the day, I'm sure the Lord has forgiven me for it, and she smiled so sweetly they were both completely won. When they rose to go, Deacon Frost said to Deacon Flint, "It is our missionary meeting to-night, brother, and a little explanation from you there will set the matter right, I guess."

Up spoke the feminine voice again.—"Oh, yes, Deacon Frost, Samuel was intending to explain to-night, I only wish I could be there, but I can't leave the babies."

"If you have no objections, Mrs. Flint," replied the Deacon, "my Susie will come and stay with them, and let you go, she would be delighted."

"Oh, thank you! that would be so nice, you are very kind!" and she bowed them out of the door.

"Ain't you glad you married me, Samuel, instead of Abigail Howe?" said the small woman, smiling up at him. No matter what the Deacon said and did.

As she was setting the tea-table that night, she broke out into another merry laugh.

"What's the matter now, dear?" said the Deacon.

"O, Samuel, I was thinking how you must have looked, coming up the street with your Sunday walk, your hands clasped solemnly behind you, till you got to the gate and saw me hanging up your shirt in the front yard, then how suddenly you broke into your week-day stride! Ha! ha!" and they both laughed till the tears came.

Supper over, the dishes washed, baby asleep, and Susie telling stories to the twins, the Deacon and his wife started for church. Don't be too humble, Samuel," she whispered at the door, "work in a little spice if you can, and I'll step on your corns when its time to stop."

The meeting was opened as usual; then Brother Dean was called upon for a report from India.

A little wiry, black-eyed man rose and said, "Brethren it's not much use reporting from the heathen countries, when right in our midst Deacons travel on Sunday, and Deacon's wives wash and hang out their clothes before our very eyes as we walk to the house of God. I call for an explanation."

Deacon Flint tried to rise, but somebody pulled him down, and the next minute the whole congregation was electrified by the sound of a sweet, womanly voice, saying:

"'Now, O Lord, establish thy word unto thy servant, so shall I have wherewith to answer him that reproacheth me, for I trust in thy word.'" Then turning to him she said, "My brother, you shall have an explanation," and in a simple, almost child like way, she told her story of her mistake, and the Deacon's delay, then added, "'My brother, judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come.—For we shall all stand before the judgment seat of Christ, and every one shall give an account of himself to God: let us not therefore judge one another anymore!"

The next morning the Rev. Henry Brown and his wife called very unceremoniously on the new Deacon. "We knew it wouldn't be washing day here," laughed Mrs. Brown, "so we came early: I could hardly wait to get here and talk over the funny affair. Henry said after you sat down last night, he felt like inviting you up in the pulpit."

"Why, bless me!" said the astonished little body, blushing like a girl, "I felt so ashamed of myself when I got through that I wanted to hide my head under the Deacon's coat! 'twas the first time I ever spoke in meeting in my life.'

"I hope it won't be the last, Mrs. Flint, if you always speak as much to the purpose as you did last night," said the minister, coming forward.

"Yes!" broke in his wife, "Henry said he'd always advocate woman's speaking in meeting after this."

"It was capital!" said Mr. Brown, recrossing the room to where the Deacon stood. "Just what Job Dean has needed for a long time, a good reproof, but no one had the courage to give it to him.—Your little wife has done just what the whole parish will thank her for."

"You have made yourself famous; look out for plenty of calls this week!"

"Samuel," said his bonnie wife, as she closed the door," don't you think I've introduced you pretty well? will you ever call me 'Martha—Pendleton—Flint!' again when I'm hanging out your shirt in the front yard?"

Somebody was chased out in the kitchen just then, and laughed so loud it wakened the baby.—Neil Macgre or in the Advance.

What Constitutes Desertion.

In charging the jury some days ago, in a divorce case, Judge Williams, of Chicago, gave an interesting definition of legal desertion. The law requires the husband to provide such a home for his wife and such means of procuring the necessaries of life as his means and circumstances will allow. Hence if in this regard the husband exhibits an entire disregard of the wife's happiness, and an intention to compel her to live apart from him, and if he made no effort to procure her return within two years, he not maintaining her, he would be guilty of legal desertion. On the other hand, the home established and occupied by the husband is to be considered the home of the wife, and if she leaves it willfully and without a reasonable cause, and against her husband's will, this is desertion on her part, and if continued for two years would justify a divorce. No light or trivial causes will justify a wife in leaving her husband's home. Unless the abode furnished be of a grossly unsuitable character, she is not justified in leaving; and if she does so leave, the husband is not bound during such desertion to maintain the wife who has thus absented herself.

SOME wags were walking around an agricultural implement store, and they chanced to see in the rear a dressed hog hanging by a hook to the wall.

"Ha! ha!" cried they to the young man in attendance, "what sort of an agricultural implement do you call that?"

"That," he said, "is a patent combined root-grubber, corn-sheller, apple-grinder, gate-lifter, double-action, back-spring, sod-plow; but I guess you won't want one, for it takes a mighty smart man to manage 'em."

SEVEN HUNDRED MILES ON FOOT.

NILS SVENSON NYNSTEN THE HOME-STEADER.—WHERE THERE'S A WILL THERE'S A WAY.

BY PROF. J. D. BUTLER.

LINCOLN, March 25th, 1872.

Nils Nynsten is a Swede,—and was born where his forefathers, even to the years of many generations, had been content with "only this and nothing more"—

"To draw nutrition, propagate, and rot."

He aspired higher,—but so low was his birth, and so strong the barriers around him, that he was three-score years old before he could work his passage to America. Two years ago he reached Iowa with his wife, and penniless, stopping first in Mount Pleasant.

While working there at his trade of wagon making, he became convinced that his best means of further advancement, was to secure a Nebraska Homestead without delay. His mode of making this boon his, own, is worth telling to encourage the others.

HOW HE DID IT!

He walked from his home to Lincoln, 307 miles, along the track of the Burlington & Missouri River Railroad. This journey he accomplished in about fifteen days. At Lincoln he found shelter in the Immigrant's Rest, a building provided by the B. & M. Railroad Co., where land hunters may lodge and live without charge, while seeking farms.

Looking at the maps of public lands in the United States Land Office there, he judged York county to afford the most desirable homesteads. He thereupon walked on thither, seventy miles further. Having picked out the farm which suited him best of all those still vacant, he returned to the Land Office and filed his claim to it, September 2d, 1871, paying $14 in fees. His homestead consists of 80 acres, in the 34th section of the 11th township in the 3d range west of the 6th principal meridian.

WHAT THEN?

Repairing again to the farm of his choice he made sundry improvements for a month. He finished him a dug-out and stacked twelve tons of wild hay.

His purse was now empty, save one dollar and a half, but he walked to Lincoln, and thence home, as he had walked hither, daily laying behind him about twenty miles.

Soon after reaching home, at the end of a seven hundred mile walk, he learned that his hay stacks had been burned by a prairie fire—having no plow, he had been unable to make a fire-break around them. But throughout all, he seemed to have lost nothing of heart or hope, but to have remained as jolly as Mark Tapley in Chuzzlewit.

Through all the winter he worked at his trade, sometimes beginning his toils at two o'clock in the morning. Thus he finished three good wagons.

Two he traded off, for a mule and harness. Then putting on board his wife, a barrel of pork, a barrow, all of wood, made by himself, and some other needments, he drove westward, by the same route which he had last fall traveled on foot.

He took with him three other Scandinavian Homestead hunters, each with a wagon and his family in it.

He arrived in Lincoln in due time, rested a little among the old familiar hospitalities for strangers, afforded gratuitously by the B. M. Railroad Co., through the whole souled keeper, John Frost, and on the 21st of March, in spite of an equinoctial wind, set his face towards his homestead. His journey thither can hardly require more than three days,—but as he must needs be there before the first day of April, or be egregiously April fooled, by forfeiting his farm, he resolved to make assurance doubly sure. Hence he has taken time by the forelock.

Nils Nysten is sixty-two years old, though he declares himself only forty—when just shaved. His example shows what others can do. It shames many faint hearts that are weeping like women for lack of a farm, which they have the privilege of seizing, like men, had they only manly pluck.

Nils Nysten's homestead was one of 9,822 which had been entered in the Lincoln United States Land Office, before last New Years. The number there entered since New Years is 501.

The B. & M. Railroad Company have sold 351,705 acres to 3,238 buyers, on ten years credit and six per cent. interest.

True Ladies.

True ladies are now, as they always have been, rarities of the human race.—To be sure we hear a great many persons spoken of as ladies—especially those who wear fine clothes—with scarcely any regard to other qualities; but it takes more than fine raiment, and more, even than polite manners, to make a true lady.

The qualities that make a lady, are qualities of the heart rather than of the mind. I think we might almost say that a lady is of necessity a Christian; she is always mindful of the rights of her neighbors, remembering to do unto others as she would have them do to her. To her friends she is cordial, but never familiar, however intimate she may be, never seeking to gain their confidence, but, when intrusted with their affairs, keeps them as private as she would her own; to her acquaintances she is pleasant and agreeable, to her dependents and inferiors kindly polite, that to them unkind words may be few and far between.

In her intercourse with children she is particularly thoughtful, knowing that the impressions received in childhood are vivid, and often long remembered. She never forgets to thank them for any service rendered, and kindly smooths over and excuses their little faults and blunders. If she has the care of little ones entrusted to her keeping, she strives to bring them up as truthful, conscientious and God loving children, but allows them to be natural and free, as they were made to be.

A lady is a lady, at all times, at home and abroad, and, under all circumstances by her quiet dignity keeping all coarseness and familiarity at a distance, and, by her gentleness and purity, breathing an influence for good upon all who may come in contact with her.

Caste on Long Island.

The Baptist Society at Jamaica, of which the Rev. Charles Colman is pastor numbers among its members several persons of color, among whom is Rev. Edwin Tunnel, who is a native of South Carolina, and previous to the war was a slave. On the formation of the Baptist Society in Jamaica he became one of its members, and was recently licensed as a preacher. A few evenings since the congregation gave Mr. Colman a donation party at the house of Rev. John Everitt, and as all were invited to attend brother Tunnel, supplying himself with a basket and a two-dollar greenback, wended his way to Deacon Everitt's. On arriving there he was refused admittance, on the plea that his presence at the party would injure the church. The colored brother, 'tis said that if he was not good enough, his provisions and money were not, returned home. The fact soon became known to those in the house, and a number expressed themselves rather strongly on the matter—Rev. Horace Waters, of New York, Rev. A. Stewart Walsh and several others at once leaving the house. It then leaked out that Rev. Colman had, a few evenings previous to the donation, taken supper and spent the evening with Tunnel's family. One of the members has gone so far as to leave the church entirely, refusing longer to commune with the negroes.

Haul In Your Line.

"Take no thought for the morrow," that is, no anxious, fretful thought. Walk through to-day as well as you can, and God will undertake for your future.—When you go forward out of to-day, to worry about it, you are over the fence, you are trespassing, and God will scourge you back into your own lot. When I have been fishing in a mountain stream, I have always found that so long as I kept a short line I could manage my fishing very well; but when I let my line run out, the stream took it down, and there I was, at the mercy of every stick that stuck up in the stream, and every rock that jutted out from the banks. I lost my fish and I tangled my line; very likely I lost my footing, also, and got over head and ears in the stream. Now most men have cast out their line into forty years long, when it ought to be but one day long. In consequence, they are not able to manage their tackle at all; but are pulled after it, stumbling first into this hole, and then into that; slipping up here, and slipping down there, struggling and splashing about in far more distressed fashion than the fish at the other end of the line—and, as a general thing, there is no fish there. Haul in your line.

A FRENCH soldier, on picket reserve, went to a house (as he said) to borrow a frying-pan, but for what purpose none could imagine, as there was nothing to fry. However, he went to the house and knocked at the door, which was opened by a lady, who asked what he wished.

"Madam, could you lend me a frying-pan? I belong to the picket down here."

"Yes, sir," and forthwith came the pan.

He took it, looked in it, turned it over and looked at the bottom, and then turned it over again, and looked into it very hard, as if not certain it was very clean.

"Well, sir," said the lady, "can I do anything more for you?"

"Could—could—could you lend me a piece of meat to fry in it, ma'am?" and he laughed in spite of himself. He got it.

"Little Floy."

I was much touched says a correspondent writing for the ruins of Peshtigo with the story of Joseph Lasure. He was a farmer in the Bush, with a wife and five children. They had fought to the last, and left only when the flames flashed clean over their building. Lasure carried his three-year old boy, and his wife a babe. All kept together, with the flames striking them at every step, for 30 rods. The wife could go no farther, and dropped with her stifled babe in her arms. The father had now to drop his little three-year old, who was picked up in turn by the elder boy of thirteen, The brave boy carried the little fellow for nearly a quarter of a mile, when both sank down together. Little Floy, nine years old, and their only girl, stood it the smartest of all, and kept ahead of her father for half a mile, cheering him on with brave words, when all the rest had perished. She had now to pass over burning grass, when her dress was enveloped in flames. "Oh, if I could only have saved that girl!" said the grief-choked father, and his story was ended. A young lad, next neighbor to Lasure, who was saved, had much to tell of little Floy. She was the smartest scholar at school. She read finely in the 5th reader, and could spell down all the scholars. She was small of size, exceedingly bright beautiful, active and sweet tempered. All the living in Sugar Bush will remember long and speak tenderly of the little heroine.

It Was Done.

Piggy got into a large yard where he did not belong, and trying to get out again he stuck fast under a high board fence, and there began to kick and squeal in the good old way. His owner, a big, fat Irishman, hearing the hubbub, ran out of the house near by, and caught his pig by the ears, endeavored to pull him through the hole before the trespass was detected. But this treatment had no effect but to make the pig yell the more. An old ram in the yard hearing the noise, and seeing piggy's hind-legs and tail flourishing away in a menacing manner, accepted what he thought was a challenge, and lowering his head charged with all his might. He struck his mark squarely and fairly, and the pig shot through the hole like a pork cannon-ball, and striking his master full in the breast, knocked him flat on his back. The only person who witnessed this closing scene was just entering the yard, and not being aware how many actors were engaged in it, was very much surprised to hear what he supposed to be the pig, swearing in Irish on the other side of the fence.

A Terrible Premonition Realized.

Cleveland recently was the scene of one of those awful cases of mysterious warning and sad realization that have been agonizing the country papers lately. The sad circumstances are as follows: A young and beautiful married lady, whose husband was down town attending a "railroad meeting," stepped into a neighbor's house to while away an hour or so until he returned. While engaged in knitting a stocking, she was startled by the sudden dropping of all the stitches from one needle, she proceeded to gather them up, when a looking-glass in the room fell and broke; she then felt that some deadly peril hung over her husband and rushed home. The front door was open; his overcoat hung upon the floor, and his plug hat was placed upon the marble bust of Daniel Webster, in the parlor. With an undefinable feeling of terror she rushed to her room—only to find her warning realized; there he lay on the bed, with his boots on the pillows and the ace of spades tightly clutched in his hand. She did not faint, but denied trumps and played club—around his head—until he promised to give up such "tricks."

"OH, mother! mother!"

"What, son!"

"Mayn't I have the big Bible up in my room to-day?"

"Yes, my child, in welcome. You don't know what pleasure it gives me to see your thoughts turn that way. But what sticks are those you have in your hand?"

"Triggers."

"Triggers for what, my child?"

"Why, trap triggers. Here's the standard you see, that's the flipper and that one with the fat meat on the end is the long trigger. There's a mouse keeps coming into my room and insulting me, and I want to set the big Bible for a deadfall, and try and knock the stuffing out of him."

IT is often debated which is the most enjoyable—the anticipation of a pleasure or its realization; but the power of recalling, mellowed and hallowed by the lapes of time, is more potent than either.

AN exchange says that this was the coldest March that has been known since the settlement of North America. London even, had a snow storm on the 21st.

"IF a man has got eighty thousand dollars at interest and owns the house he lives in, it ain't much trouble to be a philosopher.

MR. GREELEY AND THE DEMOCRACY.

[From the Pittsburg Commercial.]

It is perhaps too early to answer conclusively the question which nearly everybody is asking: What will the Democracy do touching Mr. GREELEY's nomination? Enough is known, however, to render it certain that Mr. Greeley is to be the bone of contention in the Democratic party, and that the Cincinnati Convention, if it has been the source of embarrassment and some anxiety to Republicans, will prove much more so to the Democratic party. In fact, at this moment it threatens its complete dissolution and total extinction.

Already there are two parties in its ranks; one for and the other against indorsing Mr. Greeley as the Democratic Presidential candidate. * * * * *

At the present moment appearances rather favor Mr. Greeley becoming the candidate of the Democracy. The home organ of the Democracy here, the Pittsburgh Post, the Boston Post, and the Chicago Times are the most pronounced papers of prominence in the party against Mr. Greeley. The Philadelphia Age wants justice Thompson for a candidate. The World does not disguise its dislike of Greeley, wants to take time to consider and will abide the action of the constituted authorities. The Washington Patriot, reflecting the Democratic view at the capital, favors an out and out candidate. The St. Louis Republican (Democratic) is out for Greeley, and declares that he must be the candidate of the party. The Cincinnati Enquirer is ready to take him, but will wait for the action of the Democratic Convention. The Louisville Courier-Journal, with its face toward the South, though halting for the moment, is likely to go with the last named Democratic organs. From the South the reports favor the presumption that the Democrats there will take quite readily if not heartily to Mr. Greeley; and on the whole, the signs from nearly every quarter are indicative of strong if not successful resistance to nominating a regular Democratic candidate. But there will be a struggle, and a fiercer one than the Democratic leaders who were active in promoting the Cincinnati Convention, in the hope of dividing the Republicans, ever dreamed. In fact, the Cincinnati movement, on which the Democrats have based so many and great expectations, is likely to prove to them a boomerang of the most effective description.

GENERAL BROWNE, Republican candidate for Governor of Indiana, made a good point the other day when, in answer to a question whether he was in favor of an amendment to the Constitution of the United States recognizing the existence and authority of the Deity, he replied that the Republican party had already put God in the Constitution by recognizing the rights of His creature, man, and that there was, therefore, no necessity for any amendment of the character proposed. His interlocutor did not press him further.

THE Convention of Liberal Republicans which met in Cincinnati, last week, nominated Horace Greeley for President, and B. Gratz Brown for Vice President. The Platform adopted by this convention is one of platitudes instead of ideas, of course we have no room for it. It entirely ignores the doctrine of Protection to American industry. Poor Greeley! Who would have thought it?

A STRANGE STORY.

About five years ago a youth, apparently fifteen or sixteen years of age called at the publishing house of John E Potter & Co., in Philadelphia, and offered a manuscript story for publication. Mr Potter, the head of the firm, who happened to be in at the time, smiled at the idea of one so youthful aspiring to appear in literature as the author of a book, but finally, at the urgent request of the boy, consented to keep the manuscript for a few days and look it over. When he had done so he was convinced that the story, while evincing a lack of polished education on the part of the boyish author, possessed considerable merit as an exciting novel, some of the scenes being described with wonderful power, and after consulting with the other members of the house decided to publish it. When the youth called a few days afterward he told him of his conclusion, and it was agreed that the author should receive a royalty of ten cents a copy on all sold. The story was duly published in book form, under the title of "White Rocks," and since that time one hundred and seventy thousand copies have been sold. But what is singular about it is, that the youthful author has never been seen or heard of since, and there is now due him the sum of $17,000, as copyright on his story.

THE Lewistown Gazette strikes a wicked, decapitating blow, but most sound Republicans will think not an undeserved one. It says:

"Forney's Press, like old Granby Greeley's New York Tribune, has been playing some extraordinary pranks lately. During the Gray-M'Clure election, it looked a good deal as if the Press was on a regular drunk, no living man being able to tell two days at a time what or whom it was for. And Forney don't like Gen. Hartranft's nomination for Governor. We do not wonder much at this, for Gen. Hartranft committed the unpardonable sin of refusing to pay hundreds of thousands of dollars to Geo. O. Evans, the defaulter, who had been strongly recommended for the position he held by said John W. Forney. Besides, it appears that a nephew of Forney's had a pick at Evans' stealings to the tune of $6,000 or more, and that Forney himself got $2,000 of it! And then again the Republican party could not or would not see that Forney wanted to be United States Senator—all which, with other similar causes, where sundry Wormweeds were not recognized has caused the Press to turn sorehead. Fortunately, the city dailies are no longer a power in the country as they were years ago. People begin to see them as they are—trucklers to great corporations, sycophants to patronage, and adulators of self, with reporters and correspondents who can outline the prince of liars; and after a little more exercise of patience, the people will kick the Presses, Tribunes, Inquirers and other vacillating sheets out of their road."

—A "jackass," which was the subject of a law suit, was lately taken into open court, his head decked with a stovepipe hat, a pair of linen pants covering his fore legs, a pair of spectacles crossing his eyes, and a placard hanging on a conspicuous part of the animal, bearing this inscription: "$500—cheap for cash." A "Digest" was opened before him, and it so worked upon his feelings that he gave vent to one of those moving bursts of "eloquence" for which these long-eared animals are so much noted. It is needless to add that the case was discontinued by the plaintiff.

—Earthquakes appear to be steadily on the increase. According to best authorities there were in the fourth century, twenty-one; in the fifth, twenty-five; in the sixth, forty-one; in the seventh, ten; in the eighth, eleven; in the ninth, thirty-six; in the tenth, seventeen; in the eleventh, fifty-one; in the twelfth, sixty-eight; in the thirteenth, fifty-five; in the fourteenth, fifty-eight; in the fifteenth, forty one; in the sixteenth, one hundred and ten; in the seventeenth, one hundred and eighty; in the eighteenth, six hundred and eighty; in the nineteenth, nine hundred and twenty-five.

THE Causes of Temperance finds some of its most insidious and dangerous foes in the many so-called "tonics" and "appetizers," made of cheap whiskey and refuse liquors, finished up to suit depraved appetites, under the name of medicines. DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA VINEGAR BITTERS are none of these. They are not a beverage, but a genuine medicine, purely vegetable, prepared from California herbs by a regular physician. For all diseases of the stomach, liver, kidneys, bladder, skin and blood, they are an infallible and unrivalled remedy. 18-4t

CORRUPTION in New York city is giving way by degrees, to the advance of a stern public opinion. The judges who were to be impeached and turned out of office, are now gracefully resigning. It is fearful to reflect, that the influence of the Democratic party in that city went so far as to corrupt the judiciary.

IF we had not had protection, how many steel works and rolling mills would now be in operation in the United States? What would the men now engaged in such establishments do if the products instead of being the result of their labor, were brought from abroad?

As a piece of political fence balancing the double-face, rule-or-ruin ticket, stands unequalled in the history of American politics. Greeley, a life-long ultra-protectionist—Brown, a stern and unyielding free-trader.

REPUBLICAN STATE PLATFORM.

Below will be found the Resolutions adopted by the convention which placed in nomination Gen John F. Hartranft, Hon. Ulysses Mercur, Gen. Harrison Allen and the entire State Ticket. The Resolutions were written by that clear headed and efficient Republican—Russel Errett, Esq., and have the true ring. Republicans, workingmen and all honest Democrats, can safely stand upon this platform. Let them be carried out in good faith and there need be no fears entertained in regard to the salvation and perpetuity of the government either State or national:

1. That we reaffirm our devotion to the principles of the Republican party, and our belief that the continued existence of that party is necessary to the maintenance and success of those principles. The grand and fundamental idea of the equality of all men in political rights is not professed by any other party, and can be sustained faithfully only by those who are sincerely committed to it.

2. That the adoption of the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution of the United States has not been sufficiently acquiesced in by all to render certain and secure their permanent incorporation in that instrument, and hence the administration of the government can safely be entrusted only to that party which is heartily, and beyond question, committed to them, and the policy necessary to put them into successful operation.

2. That we are now, more than ever, called to sustain the policy of national protection to American industry. If the laborer is worthy of his hire, and a fair day's work entitles the worker to a fair day's pay, we must continue to throw the protecting arm of the government around those who toil for their daily bread. The protective policy alone makes labor contented and capital secure. It renders employment certain, and pay ample and satisfactory; whilst free trade means that our laborers and mechanics must either work for lower wages or that our factories should be closed through foreign competition, and the workingmen of the country deprived of employment

4. That the public lands belong to the people, and should be reserved for the people. We, therefore, pronounce most decidedly against any further appropriation of the public lands in behalf of corporations or individuals. All lands not sold according to law should be open to preemption and actual settlement.

5. That we demand a continued adherence to the policy hitherto pursued, under Republican auspices, in our State and in the nation, of a steady and gradual reduction of the public debt. The interests of the people require that the most rigid economy should be practiced in the administration of both the Nation and the State governments, and that taxes should be reduced in both as rapidly as is consistent with the honorable maintenance of the public credit, and the certain extinguishment of all the public debt.

6. That we are earnestly in favor of the earliest possible removal of the duties on tea and coffee, and urge the prompt passage of the bill for that purpose now before Congress

7. That we heartily approve of the act of Gen. Grant in giving a trial to the plan of civil service reform. We demand that the plan, or any other that may be substituted in its place as better, shall have a fair and unembarrassed trial, that every effort shall be made to secure competent men for public service, and that honesty and incorruptibility shall be deemed qualifications as essential as competency and intelligence.

8. That the Republican party has given full evidence during the past eleven years of its ability to administer the government honestly, faithfully and successfully. It has, within that time, maintained the honor of our National flag at home and abroad; preserved the Union from disruption and restored it in its integrity; secured to all classes and conditions of men the rights given to them by their Maker, and having proclaimed liberty throughout all the land, unto all the inhabitants thereof, has given to that proclamation the full effect to which it was entitled; and we therefore, in its name, claim from the people a continuance of their confidence, and fearlessly challenge their scrutiny into its acts

9. That we point with pride to the record of Gen. Grant's administration of the National Government. Not only has the weight of internal taxation been almost wholly removed from the people's shoulders, but three hundred millions of the national debt have been paid off—a result never before attained by any other people under like circumstances, and for which we are indebted to the rigid honesty strict economy and sterling integrity which the President has brought to the administration of a national affairs.

10. That we present his name for renomination to the Presidency, confident that the people will again rally to the support of the man who so nobly fought their battles; who, under the guidance through its struggle to maintain its existence, and who has since so successfully administered the affairs of the government as to command general admiration, at home and abroad.

11. That we will stand by the government in the foreign policy so firmly marked out and adhered to by President Grant. The honor of the nation, we feel, is safe in his hands, and the flag under which he never suffered defeat, will not be dishonored while he is kept in the front.

12. That we congratulate the people of Pennsylvania on the final accomplishment of the call for a convention to revise and amend the Constitution of the State and we earnestly urge upon our friends to see that delegates are chosen in their respective districts committed to the policy of incorporating in that instrument a clear and decisive prohibition of special legislation.

13 That we hereby declare our opposition to every effort to withdraw from the sinking fund of the Commonwealth, either by substitution, exchange or otherwise, any of the bonds, securities or moneys now pledged to it, and through it to the payment of the public debt of the Commonwealth, and our inflexible determination to preserve the same, inviolably, for the fulfillment of the Commonwealth's obligations.

14. That the oil producing, mining, lumbering and manufacturing interest of the State require protection from the efforts of dangerous combinations, and that such laws should be enacted by the General Assembly of this Commonwealth as will protect said interest, both in their development and the transportation of their productions to market.

15. That the thanks of our party are due to Governor John W. Geary, under whose lead our principles have twice been successfully vindicated in Pennsylvania; the State debt has been reduced during his administration; our soldiers orphans have been carefully cherished and educated; and our laws have been efficiently and wisely enforced. Under the necessity of parting with him as Governor, in conformity with the Constitution of the State, Governor Geary carries with him in his retirement the heartfelt wishes of its people for his future prosperity and happiness.

16 That we present with peculiar pride and especial confidence of their success, the names of Gen. John F. Hartranft for Governor, Ulysses Mercur for Supreme Judge, Gen. Harrison Allen for Auditor General, and the gentlemen this day named for delegates at large to the Constitutional Convention. They are all men worthy of an active and ardent support at the hands of the Republican party, and we call upon our friends throughout the State to rally as one man to secure their triumphant election.

17 That the President of this Convention, in connection with the candidates this day nominated for State officers appoint the chairman and one Secretary of the State Central Committee, and that the State Committee be made up on the basis adopted last year, and the two years preceding.

Evils Of A False Position.

We are inclined to think that half the miseries from which most of us suffer are of our own making. If we would be happy, we have only to cut away from our lives the superfluities which overburden them, and which are a continual source of anxiety to us all. Why, for example, should we place ourselves in a false position merely for the satisfaction of others, or to meet some absurd requirement of society? Why should any man assume to be what he is not, for the purpose of obtaining a fictitious respect from his fellow-citizens? And why, in short, are we not all more natural and less stilted in our intercourse with each other? The answer is not far to seek. The great mass of our countrymen have a certain leaven of snobbishness in their dispositions, which they would, perhaps, be unwilling to exhibit in its broadly repulsive aspect.

We have all learned the lesson which Mrs. Grundy has been so assiduously teaching to many generations of men and women, and we fear the old Gorgon too much to venture upon anything like freedom of action. Social life is, in short, a species of refined slavery; there is the lash or the goad of opinion ready for the man who ventures to be original, and social outlawry for such vagabonds or nomads as refuse to submit to the rule and precedent. Mild enthusiasts, whose simplicity often causes men of the world a smile, are continually croaking over the evils of separation of class from class, and are ever on the alert to efface the broad lines of demarcation which divide the various sections of society. One professor of the philosophy of Utopia would bring the lower and upper ranks together on a footing of common brotherhood; another would fuse the whole middle class into one homogeneous mass; while a third would make intellect or talent the sole passport to what is called good society. We hear much of the gradual disintegration of certain class distinctions which once kept sections of society separate, but, as far as our experience goes, we do not find that the property qualification' if we may so express ourselves, has less weight in the world now than in any period of modern history.

The rich snob is always certain of some degree of consideration, from even people of unexceptionable position in the world, while the poor man of talent, who may be admitted among people on sufferance, has constant and daily humiliations to put up with in the false position in which he finds himself. Let us assume the latter to be possessed of high, but not rare, ability; that he has acquired some share of popularity, and that his wide reading and accurate thinking make him a really valuable acquisition to the people who patronize him. It is the fashion to say that such a man finds himself the social equal of any one with whom he may come in contact, and this, of course, may be true in the case of a genius of high order. But we are not thinking of the highest lights of the intellectual world, of the highest section of society, but of that mediocre talent, of which there is a plentiful crop, and of those eminently respectable classes who think more of the length of a man's purse than they ever do of the weight and texture of his brains. Assume that such a man holds a doubtful position in the world, that he is poor, and passes each day in the wretched drudgery of mechanical work. His talents, however, bring him in contact with persons far above him in social position, whose habits are foreign to his, and we know little or nothing of the sphere in which he spends the greater portion of his time. He cannot wholly avoid those people, however much his sound sense may prompt him to do so. He must either herd with his equals, and miss all chances of exchanging ideas with minds of his own scope, or he must pocket his pride, and consent to submit to the special trials which surround a false position.

A Hard Sum.

Are you good at arithmetic? I will give you some losses to add up and circulate how much they come to. It is a good sum for the boys.

Loss of memory.
Loss of time.
Loss of health.
Loss of business.
Loss of character.
Loss of friends.
Loss of good conscience.
Loss of feeling.
Loss of the immortal soul.

It is a long and terrible account to run up; but it is an easy one to begin and I see even boys beginning at the shops—young men adding to it at the tavern and billiard saloon. Stop! Stop? and reckon up all the losses before going further. Can you afford such losses in the long run of eternity.

SHARP SHOOTING.—The following dialogue on "sharp shooting" quietly took place between a Virginia and Yankee picket. 'I say can yon fellows shoot?'

'Wal. I reckon we can some. Down in Mississippi we knock a bumble bee off a thistleblow at three hundred yards.'

'Oh, that ain't nothing to the way we shoot up in Vermount. I belonged to a company up thar' of a hundred men, and we went out for practice every week. The cap'n draws us up in single file, and sets a cider barrel rolling down hill, and each man takes his shot at the bung-hole, as it turns up. It is afterwards examined, and if there is a shot that didn't go in the bung-hole the member who missed it is expelled. I belonged to the company ten years and their ain't been nobody expelled yet.'

A SISTER'S INFLUENCE.—"That man has grown among kind and loving sisters," I once heard a lady remark. "And why do you think so?" said I. "Because of the rich development of all the tender feelings of the heart, which are so apparent in every word" A sister's influence is felt even in manhood's later years, and the heart of him who has grown cold with its contact with the world, will warm and thrill pure enjoyment as some incident awakes within the soft tones and glad melody of his sister's voice. And he will turn from purposes which a warped and false philosophy has reason into expediency, and weep for the gentle influence which moved him in his earlier years.

IF you wait for an opportunity, to do great things, you may never accomplish anything. The rain that fall upon the earth and makes the grass to grow and the flowers to bloom comes down in little drops. The great ocean is made up of little drops; the ocean beach that holds the great waters in their places is made of little sands. The grade of the great Pacific Rail road, over which millions of people will travel, was made, one little shovelful at a time.

GO forth then to labor, and by little deeds, rather than heroic ones make your life submit. Comfort the sorrowing, seek out the poor, and relieve their wants—reclaim the inebriate, dry up the orphan's tears, visit the afflicted, shed here a tear of sympathy, and there a tear of joy. Sing a song, offer a prayer, speak a work, cast a smile to cheer some desponding heart.

WE all of us complain of the shortness of time, and yet have much more than we know what to do with. Our lives are spent either in doing nothing at all, or in doing nothing to the purpose, or in doing nothing we ought to do. We are always complaining that our days are few, and acting as though their would be no end to them.

VIRTUE will catch as well as vice by contracts; and the public stock of honesty, manly principle will daily accumulate.—Burks.

AN APPEAL!

To Debilitated Persons,
To Dispeptics,
To Sufferers from Liver Complaint,
To those having no Appetite,
To those with broken down Constitutins
To Nervous People,
To Children Wasting Away,
To any with debilitated digestive Organs

Or suffering with any of the following Symptoms, which indicate Disordered Stomach or Liver.

such as Constipation, Inward Piles, Fullness or Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for food, Fullness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and difficult breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or suffocating Sensations when in a Lying Posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the Sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin and Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of Evil, and Great Depression of Spirits.

Hoofland's German Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINCIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons or ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic,

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases where some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article! A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it, will most certainly be cheated.

SPEAK FOR THESE REMEDIES.

Who would ask for more Dignified or Stronger Testimony?

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON. JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience of it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

HON. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. WOOD.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S PODOPHYLLIN,

Or Substitue for Mercury Pills.

TWO PILLS A DOSE.

The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it specially from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, REGULATES the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain a hold, or ever assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. These Remedies will be sent by Express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 631 Arch St., Philadelphia.

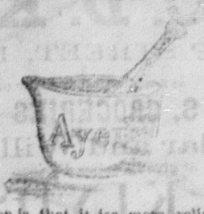
Aver's Cathartic Pills.

For all the the Purpose of a Laxative medicine.



Perhaps no one medicine is so universally required by everybody as a cathartic, nor was ever any before so universally adopted into use in every county and among all classes, as this mild but efficient purgative Pill.—The obvious reason is, that it is a more reliable and far more effectual remedy than any other. Those who have tried it, know that it cured them: those who have not, know that it cures their neighbors and friends, and all know that what it does once it does always—that it never fails through any fault or neglect of its composition. We have thousands upon thousands of certificates of their remarkable cures of the following complaints, but such cures are known in every neighborhood and we need not publish them. Adapted to all ages and conditions in all climates; containing neither calomel or any deleterous drug, they may be taken with safety by anybody. Their sugar coating preserves them ever fresh, and makes them pleasant to take, while being purely vegetable no harm can arise from their use in any quantity.

They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions from the stomach' bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their irregular action to health, and by correcting, wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

For Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Listlessness, Languor and loss of Appetite, they should be taken moderately to stimulate the stomach and restore its healthy tone and action.

For Liver Complaint and its various symptoms, BILLIOUS HEADACHE, SICK HEADACHE, JAUNDICE or GREEN SICKNESS, BILLIOUS COLIC and BILLIOUS FEVERS, they should be judiciously taken for each case, to correct the diseased action or remove the obstructions which cause it.

For Dysentery or Diarrhœa, but one mild dose is generally required.

For Rheumatism, Gout, Gravel, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Side, Back or Loins, they should be continuously taken, as required, to change the diseased action of the system. With such change those complaints disappear.

For DROPSY and DROPSICAL SWELLINGS they should be taken in large and frequent doses to produce the effect of a drastic purge.

For Suppression a large dose should be taken as it produces the desired effect by sympathy.

As a DINNER PILL, take one or two PILLS to promote digestion and relieve the stomach.

An occasional dose stimulates the stomach and bowels into healthy action, restores the appetite, and invigorates the system. Hence it is often advantageous where no serious derangement exists. One who feels tolerably well, often finds that a dose of these PILLS makes him feel decidedly better, from their cleansing and renovating effect on the digestive apparatus.

NEWSPAPER LAWS.

We would call the special attention of postmasters and our subscribers to the following synopsis of the newspaper laws:

1. A postmaster is required to give notice by letter, (returning a paper does not answer the law,) when a subscriber does not take his paper out of the office, and state the reasons for its not being taken; and a neglect to do so makes the postmaster responsible to the publi-hers for is payment.

2. Any person who takes a paper from the post-office, whether directed to his name or another's, or whether he has subscribed or not, its reponsible for the payment.

3. If a person orders his paper to be discontinued, he must pay all arrearages, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made, and collect the whole amount, whether it be taken from the office or not. There can be no legal discontinuance until the payment is made.

4. If the subscriber orders the paper to be stopped at a certain time, and the publisher continues to send it, the subscriber is bound to pay for it, if he takes it out of the post-office. The law proceeds upon the ground that a man must pay for what he uses.

5. The Courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post-office, or removing and leaving them uncalled for, is prima-facie evidence of intentional fraud

---

Heavy Frosts in this neighborhood on last Sunday and Monday mornings. The cherries are Killed.

Soda Water.—Soda water, the first of the season, at Rankin & Co's Drug Store. The first fountain opened. We'll take Raspberry.

Run Away.—Mr. Anderson of the insurance firm of Anderson & Hale made a very narrow escape on Monday last. His horse which is a spirited one, took fright near the Round House became unmanageable, and ran away. It was caught near the Depot. Mr. Anderson escaped without injury; but the wonder is that he was not killed.

Fire.—The country as well as town, cannot always escape the ruins of the fire fiend. On the 5th inst., a tenant house, on the premises of Geo. Taylor, Esq., of Boggs twp., and occupied by Geo. Irwin, caught fire and was partly consumed. The fire was arrested in its course by timely aid, and without any loss to the tenant, and none to the owner except a part of the roof. No insurance. Every body should be insured.

Beat It.—Geo. Taylor Esq. of Wallace Run, Boggs Township raised from one grain of corn last season 2754 grains. Who can beat it? Let us hear from any one. As Mr. Taylor is a sound Republican, so is this corn. It is not Greeley corn. It is known as the Sanford white corn. Any one disputing this account can be satisfied by counting the corn, and the stalk can be seen at any time. Mr. Taylor is willing to "acknowledge the corn."

A New Health Monthly.—"The Science of Health," just commenced by S. R. Wells, 389 Broadway, New York, will advocate the Hygienic method of treating disease; its remedial agents being air light, temperature, diet, bathing, exercise and rest, electricity, magnetism, etc. It will, no doubt, become popular as a health teacher, in the broadest and best acceptation of that term. May success attend the new enterprise!

How to Treat a Felon.—Put the felon in white lye four or five minutes, or until you can scrape the outside skin off; then apply the following poultice; Streaked maple bark, scraped or pulverized, 1 part, and wheat bran 2 parts, mixed with boiling water to the consistency of a thick pudding. When the poultice becomes dry, moisten, and then apply as before. I had three felons in one year, and either one would have been enough to kill a common man, if allowed to go through. But they were rendered perfectly painless by the application of the above poultice. The same poultice, for boils or carbuncles, will render them perfectly painless.

The Convention.—The convention of School Directors, for the purpose of electing a county Superintendent met in the Court House yesterday and organized by electing Col. Jno. Rishel of Gregg twp. President James H. Rankin and J. H. Lipton Secretaries. After the organization of the Convention, it was resolved to fix the salary before proceeding to the election. Diphtheria.—As this disease is now prevailing to a considerable extent, we publish the following remedy, said by the New York Tribune, and many who have tried it, to be a sure cure: "A physician says that of 1000 cases in which it has been used not a single patient has been lost. The treatment consists in thoroughly swabbing the back of the mouth and throat with a wash made thus: Table salt, two drachms; black pepper, golden seal, nitrate of potash, alum, one drachm each. Mix and pulverize, put into a teacup, which half fill up with good vinegar. Use every half hour, one, two and four hours, as recovery progresses. The patient may swallow a little each time. Apply an ounce each of spirits turpentine, sweet oil and aqua ammoniæ, mixed, to the whole of the throat and to the breast bone, every four hours, keeping flannel to the part.

Change.—Messrs R. F. Rankin & Co. having purchased the Drug Store formerly belonging to Messrs Linn & Wilson, on Allegheny St. are now under full head way and prepared to furnish all kinds of Drugs Medicines, Chemicals, Patent Medicines, perfumery, brushes, toilet soap, tobacco segars, and all other articles usually kept in a first class Drug Store. Mr. Rankin the senior member of the firm is a graduate of one of the best Medical and Chemical Schools in the State, is a young man of great energy, and of experience in his business. It is with pleasure we announce these facts, and would say to the medical Profession, and to all persons, ladies and gentlemen call at the Peoples Drug Store and see R. F. Rankin & Co.

Sure Cure for Neuralgia.—The Norwalk Gazette says: A friend of ours who suffered horrible totures from neuralgia, hearing of a noted physician in Germany who invariably cured that disease, crossed the ocean and visited Germany for treatment. He was permanently cured after a short sojourn, and the doctor freely gave him the simple remedy used, which was nothing but a poultice, and tea made from our common field thistle.—The leaves are macerated and used on the afflicted as a poultice, while a small quantity of leaves are boiled down in the proportion of a quart to a pint, and a small wine glass of the decoction drank before each meal. Our friend says he has never known it to fail of giving relief, while in almost every case it has effected a cure. It is certainly worth a trial.

Still Ahead.—Jno Powers the indifatigable and polished Boot and Shoe man is still determined not to be under sold in this town or county. His store opposite the Bush House is always crowded with customers, and those who deal with him once never fail to call the second time. He claims to sell 40 per cent lower than any other house in town. He always keeps the latest style of lasts, and manufactures all kinds of boots and shoes to order. He never employs any but the best of workmen, and therefore, he is always prepared to warrant his work. Do not forget the place, opposite the Bush House.

The Times says Dr. Walope has lost his beautiful chestnut mare. She died suddenly in harness, it is supposed from bots or pin worms. If the Doctor had used Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders, he would no doubt, have had his to-day—they are death on worms.

Chapped hands are very common with those who have their hands much in water. A few drops of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment rubbed over the hands two or three times a day, will keep them soft and white, Fishermen, sailors, and others will do well to remember this.

Energy.—It is astonishing the efforts which are being put forth by Emil Joseph & Bro. to furnish the people of this town and county with choice goods. They advertise liberally and do all that enterprising men can do, to make good what they publish. In addition to this, they have erected a beautiful sign, painted by W. W. Sharpless. It is a beauty. To this store the people, especially the ladies, are flocking in crowds every day. This is right. Energy, fidelity and business rectitude, should enable any person to succeed.

The juveniles are joyous with the advent of May, for, like the season, sports and amusements change; nevertheless there are spare and stormy times for indoor recreation, for which there is nothing better than the perusal of some periodical. The one to fill this want is Demorest's Young America, suited to each month, its treasures are extraordinary. No child should want a magazine when it can be had for one dollar a year. Published at 838 Broadway, N. Y.

Great Bargains.—Lyon & Co. are now offering great bargains to the people of Centre county. They have determined not to be undersold in this market. Mr. Lyon, Jr., will leave for the eastern cities in a few days to purchase an extensive stock of summer goods. Do not forget the place nor the firm-name—Lyon & Co., Room No. 2, Reynolds' Arcade, Allegheny St., Bellefonte, Pa.

Good News.—Rev. James Mullen, Pastor of the M. E. Chuch, in this place for the last three years, we are pleased to learn, has secured from the Wyoming Conference, to which he was transferred, a first class appointment. This is as it should be, for Rev. Mullen, is certainly one of the most brilliant preachers to whom we have ever listened. He is not only a star preacher; but as a lecturer he is brilliant, spicy, full of wit and learned without being dull or monotonous, and in our opinion, if he has an equal, he has no superior among the lecturers of the present age.

We saw a letter from him directed to a friend in this place, in which he speaks of his new home in the most glowing terms. He is stationed at Athens, Bradford Co., Pa. He says: "I like this place very much. The entire country is grand in every respect. I have the prettiest church, in which to preach you ever saw. The congregation is large and intelligent and a pure type of original methodism. There are two rivers here. The Susquehanna runs on one side of the town and the Schemung river on the other. This latter river sweeps along the foot of the parsonage lot. They have a very beautiful boat belonging to the parsonage, and in the evening I go and sail out over the bosom of that splendid stream. I tell you it is glorious." The whole letter is full of glowing descriptions of the place and eulogy of the pure and devoted christians of that section. We are sorry we cannot find room for the entire letter. We rejoice that Rev. Mullen, has received a good appointment, and we congratulate his congregation in having received a preacher of whom they and the M. E. Church may well be proud.

FOLDED WINGS.

BY BECKIE F. CANAN.

O, tree! with branches brown and bare,
Swayed and swung by the wintry air;
Thou seemest dead to the careless eye,
And yet, within thee, folded, lie,
Safe from the cold and rattling sleet,
Leaves and blossoms, pure and sweet.

O, seed! so withered, frail and dry,
Left alone in the world to die;
Within thy case, so darkly old,
Are wax-like petals, fold on fold,
Which, soon from their prison's gloom will spring
Perfumed, and pure as an angel's wing.

O, chrysalis! dangling from some bough,
Though tossed by the restless storm-king now,
Bright hues 'neath thy protecting sheath,
Are waiting but the spring-time breath,
To flit and "glance in the sunshine", free,
Sweet emblem of immortality.

O, human soul! tried and afraid,
Within a tenement decayed;
Eternal youth awaits thee too,
When thou hast passed time's winter through,
Tremble not at its cruel stings,
Thou, too, shalt ope thy "folded wings."

Port Matilda, May 1, 1872.

$1,584,275.

The above figures is the amount of Death claims paid by the "Equitable Life Assurance Society," in the year 1871.

Those who are apt to cast discouraging and sneering remarks upon life insurance, will here find food for thought and study. The policies have been paid to persons in all grades and stations of life, from the farmer to the banker, the clergyman to the manufacturer.

No stronger argument of the uses and necessities of life insurance exists than is here presented. Death is certain, and loss sure, being merely a question of time.

The Equitable is certainly a reliable company and is well known as such in this county This company has now, through their Agent Jno. I. Rankin, policies in full force in this county amounting to $150,000. The following letter directed to Jno. I. Rankin, Esq., shows more forcibly than we can express it in words the efficiency, punctuality and faithfulness of this company:

Hollidaysburg, Pa., April 29, 1872.

John I. Rankin, Esq.—Dear Sir:—Mrs. Mary A. Williams, widow of William Williams, deceased, of this Borough, desires me to express her thanks through you as Agent of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States and New York, for the prompt payment of the policy of Five Thousand Dollars upon his life.

Yours Truly,
Rev. L. Hewit,
Attorney for Mrs. M. A. W.

The Phrenological Journal for May is a most interesting number. The following topics are worth special commendation: The Presidential Campaign—Judge Davis,—Gov. Parker; How the Faculties Combine; History of Photography in America; Expression, finely illustrated; Choosing a Servant; Robert Chambers, the distinguished Scottish Author and Publisher; Punishment and Prison Reform; Homes of Famous Americans; The Hermitage; Small-Pox and Vaccination; Irrigation in Colorado; The First Chapters in Genesis, another interpretation; Tools for our Women, etc. Terms, $3 a year. Single Nos. 30 cents. S. R. Wells, New York.

May, the happiest time of all the glad new year, has its heralds of approach daily presenting themselves on our literary table. Among the first is Demorest's Monthly, replete with good, varied and useful contents, for the household and family, while the new and exquisite designs for summer wear are abundant. There seems but one opinion on the worth of this family monthly—that Demorest is indispensable where once introduced. 25 cents, or $3 per year. With an elegant Chromo, worth $8, as a premium. WHERE THE MONEY GOES—A WORD ABOUT COSTS.

Col. W. W. Brown:

In my last you omitted an item that should have appeared under the interrogation, "What has been done with the money?" and that is the credit claimed as "Commonwealth costs" amounting to $2,219,76 by the Commissioners. This is a large sum taken out of the Treasury in one year to pay "Commonwealth costs." Was the county bound by law to pay these costs? That is the question.

By the Auditors' Report you cannot tell upon what account these costs were paid, or if they were legal or illegally paid. It is a gross sum, and without explanation. Understanding that the county was only liable for commonwealth costs in a few specified cases under the laws of this State, I made inquiry at the last court of some of the best Lawyers of the Bellefonte Bar, concerning the liability of the county to pay commonwealth costs, and was informed:

1st, That upon an indictment sent to the Grand Jury and the Grand Jury returns ignoramus, if the offence is below felony the jury must decide whether the county or the prosecutor pay the costs, and if they decide that the prosecutor shall pay the costs, the county is not liable.

Nor is the county liable, if the indictment be found "a true bill," the Defendant tried, acquitted and ordered by the Petit Jury to pay the costs, sentenced by the court to pay the costs, and discharged according to law the costs not being paid.

Nor is the county liable, if the Defendant is acquitted and the Prosecutor ordered by the jury to pay the costs, is sentenced by the court to pay them, is committed and discharged according to law, the costs being unpaid.

Nor where an indictment has been returned "a true bill," the District Attorney cannot enter a nolle prosequi with the consent of the court, and charge the county with the costs of prosecution.

I have been a Grand Juror and also a Traverse Juror several times and the Judge in charging the Grand Jury always stated that the Grand Jury, had the authority on bills before them, in all cases of misdemeanor which they return ignoramus, to say whether the county or the prosecutor shall pay the costs. And if they put them on the prosecutor the county cannot be made to pay them.

So also in charging the Traverse Jury on bills of indictment, the Judge informs the jury that they have jurisdiction over the costs, in all cases of misdemeanors, and can put the costs upon the county, defendant or prosecutor. Or they may divide them between the prosecutor and the defendant.

If this is still the law, how can it be that the county had to pay twenty-two hundred and nineteen dollars and seventy-six cents Commonwealth costs in the year 1871?

There is on its face something radically wrong and illegal and the Commissioners in justice to themselves and in justice to the tax-payers should explain, and give us the cases and items.

Let us judge how and by what law, or means, the county was compelled to pay such an enormous bill of costs in 1871. How the Commissioners, became humanitarians at the expense of the tax-payers, opened the prison doors, and let the criminal go free at the expense of the county, or did they assume the payment of the fines and costs of favorite criminals, and pay the sum out of the county funds?

There is one thing manifest, and that is; that there was no legal proceeding that compelled the county to pay $2.219,76 Commonwealth costs in 1871. Will the Commissioners or their clerk explain? The tax-payers are anxious to know.

SEWING MACHINE SALES FOR 1871.

There is a circumstance connected with the late disastrous fire in Chicago, which deserves special mention, as expressive of the comparative estimation in which the various sewing machines now in use in this country are held by the Western people. It is stated in the Report of the Special Relief Committee of that city, as published in the Chicago Tribune of March 9, of the present year, that the whole number of sewing machines for which orders have been issued to the date of the report is 2,944, on which the committee have paid the sum of $71,430.89. Of these the Singer Manufacturing Company supplied 2,427; Wheeler & Wilson 235; Howe, 127; Grover & Baker, 44; Wilcox & Gibbs, 30; Florence, 18; Finkle & Lyor, 10; Blees, 17; Ætna, 11; Wilson, 5; Western Empire, 2; Manhattan, 2; Davis, 2; Elliptic, 1: Gold Medal, 1; and American Button Hole, 2.

This Report indicates how well the Singer Sewing Machine maintains its early and well-earned popularity. It may be regarded as one of the pioneers in the Sewing Machine manufacture, which is one of the most remarkable events in the progress of mechanical invention, and one of the most striking features of modern productive industry. Additional evidence, however, is given of the popularity of the Singer "New Family" sewing machine, by the annual returns made by the various Companies, and sworn to by them in obtaining licenses in 1871, from the owners of the sewing machine patents. Those returns show that the Singer Manufacturing Company sold, during the year, 181,260 machines; the Wheeler & Wilson Co., 128,526; Grover & Baker S. M. Co., 50,838; Weed S. M. Co., 39,655; How Machine Co., (January 1st to July 1st,) 34,010; Wilcox & Gibbs, 30,127; Wilson S. M. Co., 21,153; American B. H. O. & S. M. Co., 20,121; Original Howe S. M. Co., 20,051; Florence S. M. Co., 15,947; Gold Medal S. M. Co., 13,562; Davis S. M. Co., 11, 568; Domestic S. M. Co., 10,397; Finkle, Lyon & Co., 7,639;; Ætna S. M. Co., 4,720; Bless S. M. Co., 4,557; Elliptic S. M. Co., 4,655; Empire S. M Co., 5,965; Parham S. M. Co., 2,056; Bartram & Fenton Manufacturing Co., 1,004; Bartlett S. M. Co., 614; J. G. Folsom, 280; McKay S. M. Association, 218 C. F. Thompson, 147; and the Union Button Hole Machine, 124; thus making the sales of the Singer Machines exceed those of all others, 52,000.—New York Sunday News.

Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, California.—Advertising alone does not produce success. The thing which is advertised must have intrinsic merit, or else large advertising will eventually do it more harm than good. If you have anything which you know to be good, advertise it thoroughly, and you will be sure to succeed; if it is poor, don't praise it, for people will soon discover you are lying.

Such is the policy of the Burlington Route, which runs to three great regions in the West: 1st, To Omaha, connecting with the great Pacific Roads. 2d, To Lincoln, the capital of Nebraska, and all that beautiful region south of the Platte, filled with R. R. lands and homesteads 3d, To St. Joseph, Kansas City and all Kansas points.

The roads are splendidly built, have the best bridges, finest cars, the Miller platform and coupler, and the safety air brake (to prevent the loss of life that is every where else happening); Pullman's sleepers, Pullman dining cars, large and powerful engines (to make quick time and good connections), and are in a word the best equipped roads in the West. So that if you desire to go safely, surely, quickly and comfortably to any point in Southern Iowa, Nebraska, Kansas, or on the Pacific Roads, be sure that you go "By Way of Burlington."

CAUTION.—The public are respectfully cautioned against purchasing watches purporting to be of Elgin manufacture from parties not known to them, as reliable and responsible dealers.

The Excellence and good repute of the real Elgin Watches, has caused Foreign and American manufacturers to make inferior imitations with the same or similar trade-marks as ours. These watches are being placed upon the market by unscrupulous traders, and in many cases by dealers who advertise American Watches at low prices, and make their profit by supplying, when considered safe to do so, the imitation movement. Avoid dealers who advertise cheap goods and sales upon the C. O. D. plan.

Demand in all cases the certificate of the National Watch Company, signed by T. M. Avery, President, as to genuineness of the watch purchased.

DIED.

On Sunday, April 14th, 1872, at his residence in Turbutsville, Northumberland county, Pa., Mr. Harry Faber, formerly of Harris township, this county, aged about 50 years.

He died like a Christian, in the full triumphs of faith. The "disconsolate widow" has the sympathies of her friends in this deep affliction.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

A Card.—We take this method of saying that there is no truth in the reports that have been circulated, "that we intend quitting the coal business as soon as our present supply is sold out." On the contrary we have on hands now and intend to keep on hand a well selected stock of the best Anthracite coal in the market.

DOCTOR, WHAT IS IT?

Is a question frequently asked by a patient who, though perhaps not sick enough to be confined to his room or bed, nevertheless feels himself physically unable to attend to his usual avocations.

There is a failing or general breaking down of the system, but no symptoms sufficiently marked to be classed as a disease, yet peculiarly trying to the suffer. The feelings cannot be expressed—Doctors don't understand it; they may prescribe hopefully, yet blindly, and without result. Mishler's Herb Bitters is the best Remedy for these nameless disorders.
